

Safe Web Use on iOS Devices (iPad and iPod)

Keeping your child safe when using the internet on an iPad or iPhone can be difficult, however, there are tools available that allow you to take control of your child's browsing and internet access

Mobicip (Free with in app purchases ($9.99 per device))

- Needs an account to be created by parent which allows for accounts to be created for each child in your family
- Each account is linked to a (US) School Age range
- Once installed, you login as parent and it instructs you how to disable Safari and App store to ensure that Mobicip is the default browser
- All web browsing done via the mobicip app, is routed through their servers which filter and block sites based on the level of access you setup
- When accounts upgraded by parents, you can enforce time limits, block by key words, web addresses

Smyle Safe (Free with onsite purchases (£6.85 per account))

- Requires a parental Login to activate
- Includes 15 day trial of full features)
- On first login, you define the level of content filtering (based on age ranges)
- The Smylesafe homepage links to a range of child friendly resources and reference sites
- Advanced Admin controls allow for time filters and day filters, as well as the ability to add your own websites to white and black lists to allow or block filtering
- Geofencing (alerts if your device goes outside of the set boundaries from your "home" location"
- Web portal that allows parents to monitor, track and adapt filtering without needing to access the child's device at any time
- Includes Youtube filtering, email alerts and customized filtering tools.

Remember: No filtering tool is infallible, these tools are not a replacement for taking an active interest and understanding of your child's internet habits
